General Liability Insurance

General liability insurance is a foundational coverage for any business. It protects against claims of bodily injury, property damage, and personal injury. For example, if a customer slips and falls on your premises, this insurance would cover legal fees and medical expenses. This type of insurance is crucial for maintaining a good business reputation and financial stability.

Professional Liability Insurance

Also known as errors and omissions insurance, professional liability insurance is vital for service-based businesses. It protects against claims of negligence or failure to perform professional duties. If a client claims that your services caused them financial loss, this insurance can cover your legal defense costs and any settlements.

Commercial Property Insurance

This coverage protects your business property, including buildings, equipment, and inventory, from risks such as fire, theft, and natural disasters. Having commercial property insurance ensures that your physical assets are safeguarded, allowing your business to recover quickly in the event of a loss.

Workers' Compensation Insurance

Workers' compensation insurance is mandatory in many states and covers medical costs and lost wages for employees injured on the job. This type of insurance not only protects your employees but also shields your business from potential lawsuits resulting from workplace injuries.

Business Interruption Insurance

Business interruption insurance helps cover lost income during periods when your business operations are halted due to covered events, such as natural disasters. biberk business insurance: The Pixelated Prisoner Carolyn McKay, 2018-06-13
Technological linkages between justice and law enforcement agencies are radically altering criminal process and access to justice for prisoners. Video links, integral to an increasingly networked justice matrix, enable the custodial appearance of prisoners in remote courts and are becoming the dominant form of court appearance for incarcerated defendants. This book argues that the incorporation of such technologies into prisons is not without consequence: technologies make a critical difference to prisoners' experiences of criminal justice. By focusing on the prison endpoint and engaging with the population most affected by video links – the prisoners themselves – this book interrogates the legal and conceptual shifts brought about by the technology's displacement of physical court appearance. The central argument is that custodial appearance has created a heightened zone of demarcation between prisoners and courtroom participants. This demarcation is explored through the transformed spatial, corporeal and visual relationships. The cumulative demarcations challenge procedural justice and profoundly recompose prisoners' legal experiences in ways not necessarily recognised by policy-makers.
