business workshop near me: Women, Entrepreneurship and Development in the Middle East Beverly Dawn Metcalfe, Bettina Lynda Bastian, Haya Al-Dajani, 2021-12-20 The Middle East was the region least impacted in the 2008 crisis, has investment systems markedly different to the West, is largely governed by Islamic Shari'a, and has varying forms of governance and institutional organization, which are not understood by many, nor how these systems shape entrepreneurial and industrial development. While the Middle East as a region has seen a small growth in entrepreneurship for women, and business scholarship on the Middle East has grown, there is no text in English that has brought critical insights from the Middle East together in a single volume. In examining women's entrepreneurship in the Middle East, this book aims to challenge Global North assumptions about the disempowering impacts of Islamic Shari'a and governance. Referring to the constraints of Islam on women's subjectivity and agency greatly misunderstands religious identity, of both men and women, and the way in which public administration and private sector institutions are organized in very different ways to Western regions. This timely text expands and adds new insights to the theorizations of women's entrepreneurship in the Middle East, through unravelling spatialized themes, and incorporates contemporary themes including: an Islamic science reading of women, work and venturing; changing families and entrepreneurship development; women managing social crises; Islamization, governance and women; Islamic feminist activism and entrepreneurship; representations of women's entrepreneurship on social media; and women's collectives leading entrepreneurship via Facebook entrepreneurship. It will be of interest to researchers, academics, and students in the fields of entrepreneurship, gender, work and organizations.

But as he began suffering from paralyzing anxiety for the slightest reasons, his journey through life slowly began to transform into one centered around anger, sadness, and self-destructive behavior. Plain and simple, Andrew Marshall Drew M. did not like himself, but unfortunately didn't quite understand why. In a retelling of his life experiences that is sometimes amusing and other times poignant, Andrew leads others down an interesting yet emotional path where he reveals what it felt like to have a panic attack, to be lost within the special education system, and deal with unpredictable angry outbursts. While revealing how he struggled to find answers on his own, Andrew provides an eye-opening glimpse into how he finally took control of his own mental health and identified his challenges, learned how to deal with them, and ultimately found the happiness he knew he deserved. My Experience shares the true story of one man's journey to overcome his mental health challenges and walk out of the darkness and into a bright new world.

The emergent culture of networked communication poses many interesting challenges for researchers, teachers, and writers. In an emergent culture, even the terminologies we use to identify the subject are contested, making it difficult to agree on what we're writing about in the first place, not to mention our reasons for studying it or how we might best meet the challenges it poses.
