This feature is particularly beneficial for those who work with multiple spreadsheets, as it saves time and enhances productivity. By default, Excel maintains a list of the last 25 workbooks opened, but this number can be customized according to user preferences. The recent workbooks list is accessible from the File menu, under the "Open" section, enabling users to jump back into their work without unnecessary navigation.

In addition to simply listing workbooks, the recent workbooks list may also include additional information such as the date and time of the last access. This context helps users determine which files are most relevant to their current tasks. For businesses that rely heavily on data analysis, being able to quickly access previously used workbooks can lead to more efficient decision-making processes.
